President's Comments

2023 National Spring Leadership Conference

Have you ever been “green dotted?” I have and what an experience it was! It all started when I entered the 2nd floor of the Brown Hotel in Louisville, KY, Thursday, March 2nd, where I was welcomed as a first-time attendee by members from various state SAR societies attending the 2023 National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution (NSSAR) Spring Annual meeting.

Friday morning, March 3rd started with Committee and Council of Youth Programs at 8:00 a.m. (EST). After a brief presentation from the American History Teacher, Poster & Brochure, Eagle Scout, Knight Essay, JROTC/ROTC and various committee chairmen, the attendees of the NSSAR Spring Annual conference broke out into small groups. And at 1:00 p.m. (EST), first-time attendees, like me, were transported to the SAR Library and Headquarters to receive a special behind the scenes tour. What a memorable experience that was, to see not only the library and historical artifacts, but also the layout for the new SAR Education Center and Museum section, Genealogy section and Hall of Past Present Generals of the NSSAR is quite amazing.

Each night's banquet had a special guest speaker. To start, on Friday, March 3rd, Holly A. Mayer, author of the book Congress's Own – A Canadian Regiment, the Continental Army, and American Union presented a short summary on the Colonel Moses Hazen Regiment and the civil dynamics of the American Revolution. Then, on Saturday, March 4th, SAR member Mel Stewart Hankla, Ed.D., kindly displayed a few of his famous artifacts, like the Isaac Shelby's rum swig and powderhorn and an original Kentucky rifle by the gunsmith Michael Humble. These were on display at the head table of the NSSAR Executive Officers in a beautiful glass display case for all to enjoy. Compatriot Hankla's brief presentation on the artistry of Kentucky's Historic Icons that inspired his book Into the Bluegrass was a real treat that I will remember for a lifetime.

In closing, if you have never been “green dotted,” I highly encourage you do so! Attend one of the Spring or Fall NSSAR annual meeting in Louisville, KY. And as a first-timer, the compatriots of the Sons of the American Revolution will ensure you are well received and treated during your stay. As a first-time attendee, you will learn which foreign dignitary petitioned the NSSAR for membership during your tour of the SAR library and might even receive a PG-NSSAR challenge.

133rd VASSAR Annual Conference and Crossing of Dan

The Virginia Society of the Sons of the American Revolutions 133rd Annual meeting commenced on February 9th and ended on the 11th, and was held at the lovely Berry Hill Resort in South Boston, VA.
